HERACLES

Heracles (or Hercules) is best known as the strongest of all mortals, and even stronger than many gods. He was the deciding factor in the triumphant victory of the Olympians over the giants. He was the last mortal son of Zeus, and the only man born of a mortal woman to become a god upon his death.

The image of Heracles as simply a strong buffoon is widely regarded as historically unfair. He may have held grudges and often lacked wisdom, but he would also do anything to help a friend. Once his anger passed, he was the most critical judge of his own actions. He was too strong for anyone to force a punishment on him and he often chastised himself for his brutish behaviour. This shows a fundamental sense of justice. He often showed patience, fortitude and endurance that were as heroic as his strength, and this is generally regarded a moral victory beyond simple strength.
